“You really live on Cape Cod?!”

“Yeah, sure.”

“Even in the winter?”

“Do you, like, know the Kennedys?”

“Yeah, Ted and I are like brothers. Although, I’m probably closest with Arnold and Maria . . .”

“Where’s the Kennedy Compound? How about the bridge to Nantucket? Must be great to have such warm winters! Have you actually, like, met Bob Vila? Hey, that reminds me — did you lose your house to Hurricane Bob? How cool — no snow, ever! Are there any other families that stick around for the winter? Where can I get a good lobster? You must never get bored around here — those mini-golf courses are a blast!”

“Oh yeah!”

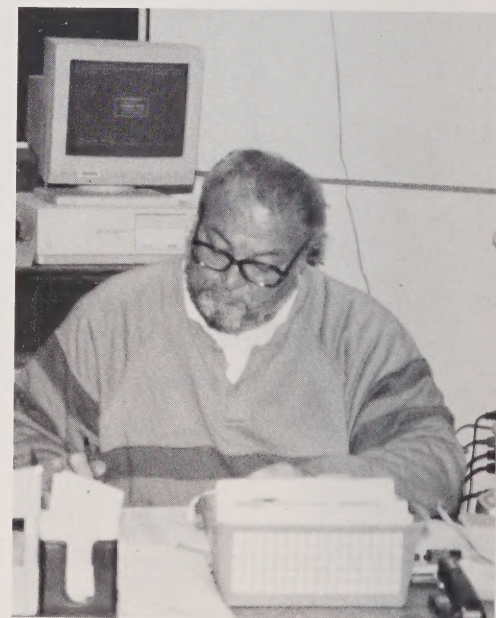

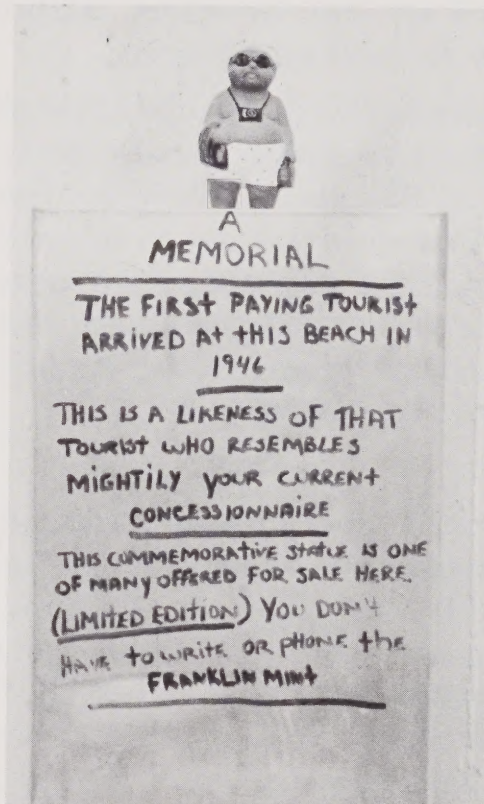

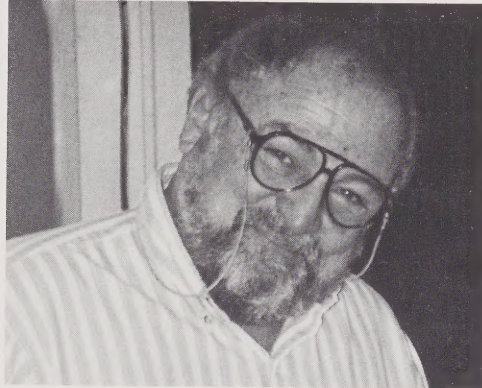

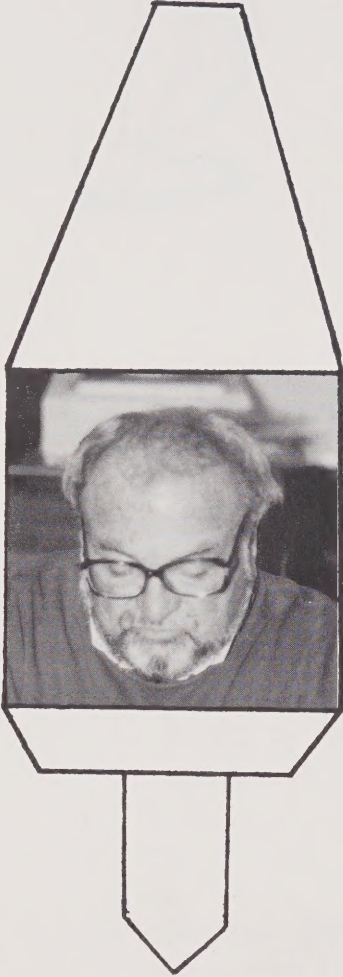

“Hey, where can I get a good souvenir? You know, something authentic. We’re not talking sea shell salt and pepper shakers. I want the true artifact. This has been such a great vacation and I would like just one object that, you know, captures the Cape. After all, I might not be able to return all that soon and I don’t ever want to forget this place. If I can’t stay forever, I would at least hope to hold on to my memories. I think the perfect souvenir would let me do just that . . .”

With great pleasure, the Barnacle staff proudly presents SOUVENIR. It’s time to move on to new places, challenges and adventures. But we’ll always have this Souvenir to bring us back to the four years we’ve shared together.

Farewell, O frabjous Dean!

I'm having the best time of my life!!! This year has really been magic. Thank you all (Justin, Amy, Dara, Melody, Andrea, Trevor, Eric "Yankee", Nathanael, Yair, Adam ...) Fernanda, Yuki, Kris: I'm glad I shared the same experience as you guys ... All my Moms, Dads, brothers and sisters: I'll always love you like my French family ... I've achieved my American Dream. Thank you those who helped me. You'll always have a place to go in France ... 27

"If you go after anything in this life, go after your dreams"

During my high school career I met new people that I befriended and that I disliked. Some people I wish I had made friends with, but I didn't. My homeroom was always full of laughter and joyness which made me happy to be a part of it. Even though this high school wasn't perfect I will always be proud to say I am from Barnstable High. Have a great life everyone.

Hi,
I had a fun and also a hard time going through Barnstable High School. I came to America five years ago from Korea. I'm glad I came to America, because I had the opportunity to meet lots of interesting people from all over the world and learn the cultures of many countries. I'm planning to finish college in Boston. After college, I would like to live in Korea for a year and live in America for a year.
Bye.

Imagine it's the year 2014. Even living on Mars and working as a computer-something-or-other cannot quiet your enthusiasm over the Barnstable High Class of '94 twentieth reunion. So, you trek down to the basement and dig up that '94 Souvenir to refresh your rapidly deteriorating memory. We pondered this crucial moment and, after much ado, decided to create this magazine to enhance your memories.

Our Times will provide you with a slice of life . . . Your life, that is. Your traumas and achievements as high school students (for those of you who choose to remember . . .) For those of you who whined "What's with all these stupid surveys?"

Now you know! Don't you feel better?

The score of the Taunton soccer game, the VP of the Key Club — Is this a nostalgia overdose?

You be the judge.

We think that it's the less obscure details that will really bring you back to B.H.S. . . . popular concerts, dating rituals, college applications, week-at-a-glance books, Beavis and Butthead key chains . . .

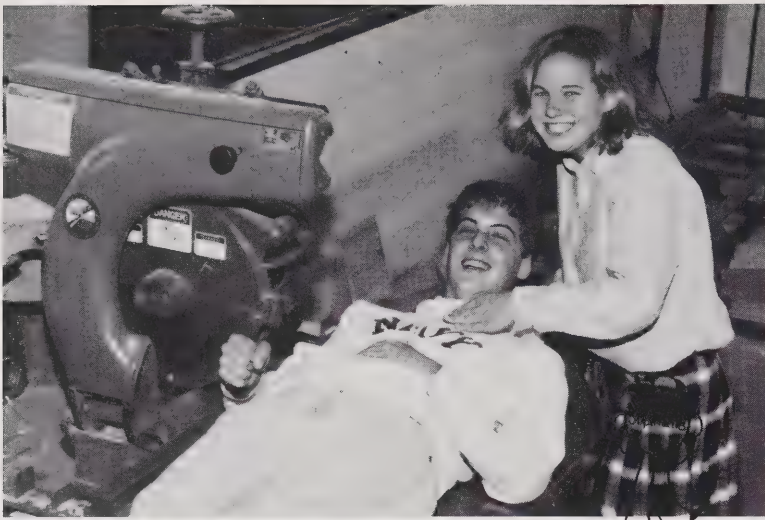

Now that you're "thirtysomething" and rereading this and thinking "Oh wow, that yearbook staff sure was special!", thank you! If not, don't call us . . . we'll call you!

1. LIFE

Becoming a senior brings a student both freedom and amazing pressure. Being the oldest in the school, driving and sitting in the coveted corner of the lunchroom are small rewards for all of the stress that students face.

Some of us are able to handle this stress (STRESS, WHAT STRESS?!) extremely well. In fact, one-third of the students we surveyed said that they didn't consider themselves stressed. On the other hand, some of us become crazed lunatics at even the thought of life outside of BHS.

The workload for seniors is relatively spread out, with the majority of students either having less than one hour of homework per night or more than three.

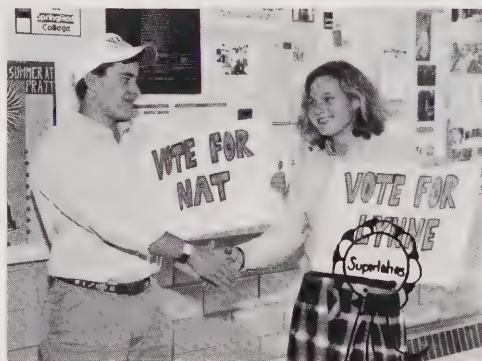

Sleeping is the way most of us cope with stress, along with exercising, watching television and hanging out with friends.

At this critical point in our high school careers, many other factors add stress to our already hectic lives. Students we surveyed reported that college applications, family problems, members of the opposite sex, money and work also contributed to their stressed-out state.

Having fun is the name of the game, right? On top of school, sports, drama and filling out college applications, students always find the time to go "CHILL" and relax and have fun.

Being with friends is always better than hanging out with the old parents. With friends, a fun time is bound to happen no matter what goes on.

In a survey of 135 Barnstable seniors, we found that 50% of them have a steady boyfriend or girlfriend, and the other 50% are taking the solo route. Eighty percent of the seniors' relationships have lasted between three months and a year. Eighty percent of the seniors would rather make a commitment to one person than date several people. When asked whether they have ever been in love, the seniors' most popular answer was "maybe later," at an amazing 44%.

Couples

Jamie and Amanda

Q: What was your most romantic date?

A: Walking home from Justin Stewart's show.

Nat and Lynn

Q: What was your first date?

A: Pizza and a movie at Lynn's house.

Lance and Jessica

Q: Do you get jealous of others who date around?

A: Sometimes, but you always remember how much you've shared, and it makes you stay together.

PDA

You laugh at it and you live with it. You see classmates against lockers, behind doors and in the middle of the halls, attacking each other as if it is the last time they will meet. Of course, we all know they will be at it again 46 minutes later.

When it comes to PDA's, why is it that some guys seem to be getting too much of a grip? "One reason could be the macho guy syndrome," writes author Neils Laverson. "A guy will get really affectionate when he's alone with you, but act tough in front of his friends — or maybe he's shy or he doesn't know how to act." The key to changing him is to get him to talk about how he feels and to let him know how you feel. In time he may become less insecure and be affectionate to you in a way you would prefer.

Truth or Tale?

"You have to be, like, Bill Clinton, to get into the library!"

Truth or Tale?

Tale: Those who wish to be in the library during lunch hours must get a pass that morning from Mrs. Regan. Except, of course, for National Honor Society members who are given laminated passes guaranteeing admittance during periods 5 through 9. Hmmm...

"I hear that we have to wear jeans and t-shirts to the prom! Say it isn't so!"

Truth or Tale?

Tale: It isn't so. Parents and school committee members were concerned about the costs of a prom and discussion about a possible casual prom took place. But, our class officers (See T or T 3) would never let that happen.

"Oh my God! We have no class officers!"

Truth or Tale?

Tale: The class officers believed that Josh Hersey's punishment was too harsh and, because of this, resigned from office. After talking with Mr. Ruberti, it was clear that Josh wouldn't be able to resume his office. However, the remaining officers believed that it would be unfair to the class if they resigned. We graduated with three officers.

"If I'm late one more time, they're sending me to be Tonya Harding's skating partner!"

Truth or Tale?

Tale: Not quite. The new attendance policy was revealed: six tardies equals five days of suspension! Disbelief sets in on the senior class and everyone decides to wake up five minutes earlier.

"Jocks get free steak and cheese!"

Truth or Tale?

Tale: A few "privileged" athletes are permitted to take larger portions than other lowly students. For $1.40, these special boys can get as much as they need, but they don't eat for free.

"Those lousy juniors won Spirit Week!"

Truth or Tale?

Hmmm: Does anybody really know who won Spirit Week? We're still waiting for those Penny War results! At press time, the seniors were leading (or, at least, they should be winning!).

SPIRIT WEEK

Chris King has Raider fever and he dyed his hair to prove it!

Rumors about Spirit Week fly around every year: Seniors always win ... It's only for athletes ... Freshmen need not apply.

The truth, of course, is that Spirit Week includes the entire school. In fact, freshmen aren't always the underdogs. For many, Spirit Week is the best week of the year. Students love everything that transpires between the Wednesday afternoon pep rally and the final showdown with Falmouth. This year, they kicked off the games with Pictionary — the wholesome game that everyone loves! You didn't have to be Michaelangelo to participate, as the drawings would have shown! Next, there was the ever popular "Mystery Place" competition.

We can't forget the scavenger hunt and of course, the first ever "Penny War." The Goofy Games were a blast for all who played (and even more so for the spectators!)

Spirit Week is about more than good times — it's about unity. Each grade has the chance to prove themselves to everyone and have a great time doing it. It is a time of petty rivalry and joyous fun. Most of all, it's a week that many will fondly remember.

HOROSCOPES

Aries (March 21-April 19)
You're a sentimental old fool! Helping Mr. Geary with his plants might be just the thing to lift your spirits. Avoid tardies . . . Saturday School lurks in the future.

Taurus (April 20-May 20)
A true nature nut! The school grounds could use some TLC and you're just the one for the job (work detail!). Be checking the mailbox for good news . . .

Gemini (May 21-June 20)
Definitely the ultimate bargain-hunter! Helpful hint: Check out the Trading and Prom Posts for bargains. With a pack of Mentos and a beautiful dress, YOU'LL BE KICKIN'!

Cancer (June 21-July 22)
Come out of your shell and take the plunge — join an activity! Sing your heart out with the drama club or ham it up with boys in the band! Keep close tabs on that locker combination . . . Mr. Frasier won't always be there!

Leo (August 23-September 22)
Put a leash on your roaring temper — chill out! Get yourself down to the art room and let it all out. Beware of freshmen in yellow sweaters on October 15 — the stars won't be on your side!

Virgo (August 23-September 22)
You'll meet your true love at a hockey game — and soon! But watch out for flying pucks or the relationship might end before the first period!

Libra (September 23-October 22)
Cheerleading is the thing for you, whether you're a girl or a boy! So give me a B! You positively reek of spunk on the 23rd . . . Be wild!

Scorpio (October 23-November 21)
Be prepared for tragedy . . . A hairball may appear in your chicken and cheese! Shove it off and stick to the vending machines. On the 4th, play some mellow tunes and avoid shopping — not everyone loves a bargain!

Sagittarius (November 22-December 21)
Don't get glum, chum. THERE IS LIFE AFTER HIGH SCHOOL. And don't forget — you can relive the glory of Turkey Day games for the rest of your life! On the 12th you're irresistible. Be seen, be heard and find yourself a mate!

Capricorn (December 22-January 19)
The end of the innocence . . . I don't think so! Tame your wild instincts! This is B.H.S., not the jungle! Lose the hat, and, for THE LAST TIME, no co-ed naked bowling t-shirts allowed!! Resist Chinese fire drills on the 4th.

Aquarius (January 20-February 18)
Keep your cool . . . take a dip in a pool. HE wants you, but you've got to let him clear things up with HER first! Do a snow dance on the 8th and you might not have to take that dreaded chem final!

Pisces (February 19-March 20)
Let your friends know how much you'll miss their LOVELY faces when this is all over . . . even the ones with two faces! Keep yourself anchored. If all else fails — blow the horn on him!

Most students at Barnstable feel music is an essential aspect of daily life. But beyond just listening to music at home while doing homework and flipping to MTV during primetime sitcom commercials, many people enjoy going to concerts to socialize and experience the thrill of seeing their favorite band live.

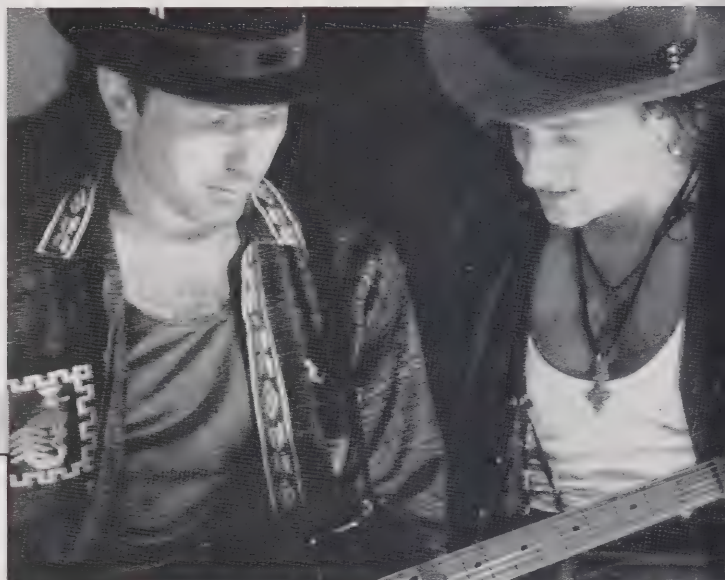

"Concerts are for being around people your own age, and having something in common with them. The atmosphere and the party help you see another side of people," said Matia Bryan.

As the class of 1994 moved through BHS, local concert attendance rose dramatically. Shows were held approximately every three weeks at a warehouse in Independence Park featuring such Cape native bands as Chilmark and Earshot. The advantages of local bands are the accessibility and inexpensive cost.

Music is a common ground for communication between people, and is a stress reliever for many college bound seniors. According to Monika Heideman, listening to music and frequenting concerts is "a short escape from all the pressures heaped on by high school life and college applications."

Babes In Toyland

Most Dramatic: Justin Stewart and Nancy LeJava

I just saw the Drama Club's winter production, Babes in Toyland. It's a love story with action, laughter, music, and enough holiday spirit to last the whole year.

Amy Conti and Nancy LeJava both were fun in the role of Mary. Nancy's breathtaking voice had you waiting for her next song, while Amy's cheerful disposition made you feel as if she were your best friend.

The part of Tom is sleekly played by Jesse Pietroniro and Justin Fayne. They both used their dashing looks and fearsome voices to control their part.

Gus Schulenburg and Justin Stewart played the part of Barnaby. Gus made Barnaby someone you hated while Justin made him someone you feared. Both approaches to this role work marvels on the crowd.

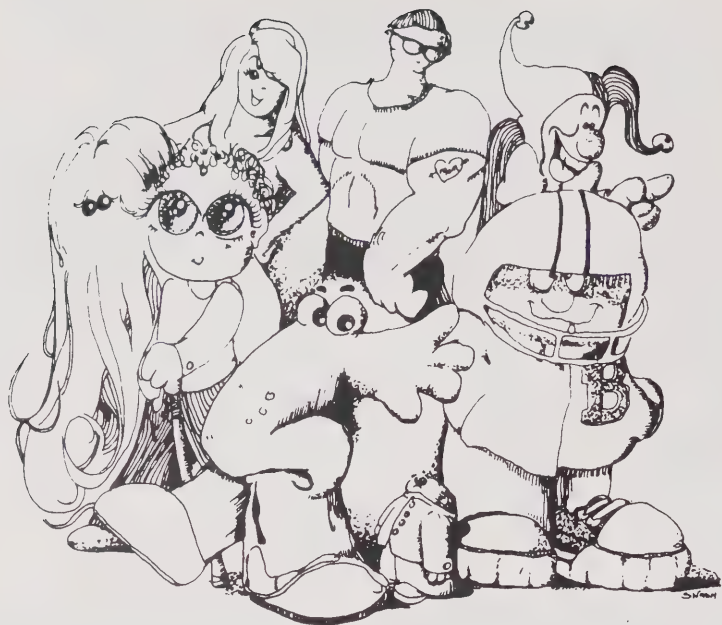

There are several supporting roles that must be mentioned. Tom Mulherin and Kristofer Vernmark (Toymaker) did an excellent job. Barnaby's sidekicks turned good guys Gonzorgo and Ronrico (Nick Sargent, Adam Moritz, Justin DeYoung, Eric Thomas) had the audience rolling in the aisles. Mary's Mom (Amy Harmon and Kristen Martone), and Edith (Corina Cullivan and Lia Mercandetti) both were strong performances. Captain Spaulding (Mike Hourihan and John Wheir) and their police squad stole the show with their comical choreography. And last but not least, Old King Cole as played by Principal Al Fortune and Dean James Ruberti put a smile on everyone's face.

John Sullivan directed the freely-adapted version of the original Herbert operetta to perfection. Babes in Toyland is a show the drama club will never forget. The music was handled masterfully under the direction of Joe DeRose, who with the help of the cast and orchestra, created perfect harmony.

The entire performance was incredible. From start to finish it is something everyone in the whole family can enjoy.

Yearbook

With its full-color cover, renovated senior section, and many other new and creative touches, the class of 1994 has been represented in an extraordinary fashion by this year's Barnacle staff.

Working on the yearbook gives students a freedom to create that they don't have in many other classes. Students can involve themselves in business, layout, or photography. "Layout is what I really wanted to do, and I really love doing it," said senior Kate Deveney.

"Yearbook has given me the opportunity to work both independently and with others. We always see immediate results — whatever we do," added senior Eva Lilienthal.

The theme for this year's yearbook is "Souvenir," a play on Cape Cod's well-known reputation as a "tourist trap." The senior section, according to editor Monica Mullaly, is "the best thing about this year's yearbook." It's fashioned after a typical souvenir, the postcard.

"We have a great staff this year," said Caroline Kepnes, another of the four yearbook editors. She added, "I'm proud of the way we worked as a team to put together an exciting student life section."

Without a doubt, the 1994 Barnacle staff, in collaboration with its advisor, Mr. Ed O'Toole, has proven its talent by producing one of the most innovative yearbooks in recent years.

Insight

INSIGHT, Barnstable High School's student newspaper, is run by editors-in-chief Caroline Kepnes and Monica Mullaly with a staff of 21 other student editors. The staff has repeatedly created an award-winning paper. It has been a three-time winner of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Award, as well as the 1990 winner of the New England Scholastic Press Association's Superior Award.

This year's staff is, in the words of advisor Mr. Mick Carlon, "a well-oiled machine ... wickedly humorous and overwhelmingly feminine!" The editors meet on select Tuesday afternoons to discuss articles and editorials written by that semester's journalism classes. They also take care in the laying out of INSIGHT.

"It's an honor to work on what is apparently one of the top student newspapers in the country," said senior Nathaniel Davis. Another senior, Yair Robinson, added, "INSIGHT's diversity is what has made it such a successful and thoughtful paper. Not only male/female, black/white, but a vast multitude of families, backgrounds, opinions and ideals. This diversity allows us report on areas too often ignored by other newspapers."

The staff of INSIGHT has obviously succeeded in its attempt to accurately represent the many different attitudes exhibited at Barnstable High School.

Kaleidoscope

"KALEIDOSCOPE is Barnstable's High School's magazine of the arts. Published in May of each year, the magazine showcases fiction, essays, poetry, photography and various other art forms from students of all four grades," explained Mrs. Peggy Regan, the club's advisor.

Ms. Pat Lawrence is KALEIDOSCOPE's second advisor. According to her, however, the magazine is created and produced solely by the students with only an occasional push from the advisors.

As proof of its excellence, KALEIDOSCOPE has been placed by the National Council of English Teachers' Literary Magazine Awards in the "Superior Category," which means it has been ranked in the top two percent of literary magazines in the state.

Although there are a multitude of works submitted to KALEIDOSCOPE each year, only about half of this material is published. The staff is responsible for selecting the work to be published, proof-reading, designing and laying out the pages.

KALEIDOSCOPE provides a wonderful opportunity for students to have their first works published. It has served as a stepping stone for many hoping to improve their writing styles and techniques.

"If you wish to be a writer,
write."

Student Council

The student council is composed of a group of students from all four grades elected by their peers to work for the entire student body. Meetings are held once a month and are run by advisor Rick Linehan with help from the following officers: President Kristen Holway, Vice President Courtney Evans, Treasurer Ian MacAllister, and Secretaries Nancy LeJava and Jana Alpren.

The purpose of the Student Council is "to act as the governing organization which will provide opportunities for education, leadership, entertainment, and personal/school growth."

"Student Council is an organization that really can better the environment at Barnstable High School if both students and teachers take advantage of it."

— Rebecca Gregoire, 4 yr. member
The theme of accessibility was targeted as the main area of focus this year. Suggestion envelopes have been placed in each homeroom in order to eliminate any "elitist" persona that the Student Council has, at times, been accused of. Members feel that this project will allow students a more active role by making it easier for them to communicate feedback/criticism.

"I would like others to perceive the Student Council as a group run by the students, for the students, and accessible to all."

— Josh Eagle, 4 yr. member
Other activities the Student Council has organized or supported this year include:

The B.H.S. "Hall of Fame": A tribute honoring outstanding graduates of Barnstable High School who have exhibited excellence in their chosen fields.

Spirit Week: A Thanksgiving competition between classes designed to bring unity and "spirit" to the entire student body and faculty.

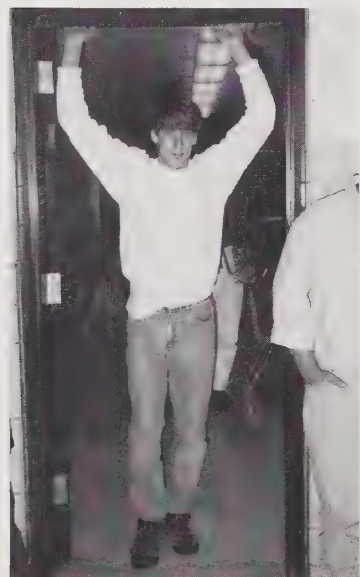

Teddy Bear Raffle: Proceeds of this December fund raiser were donated to the Children's "Make A Wish" Foundation which grants the wishes of terminally ill children.

B.H.S./Jimmy Fund 12-hour Dance Marathon: A proposed dance in which students would raise money for both the Jimmy Fund and the Dana Farber Cancer Institute of Boston.

Senior Exam Exemption: Seniors with an average of 90% or higher in a class would be exempt from taking the final exam for that class in May. This rewards students for maintaining an honor roll average and encourages others to work harder.

"At meetings we plan up coming activities and discuss issues that are affecting the student body."

— Nancy LeJava, 4 yr. member
The role of the Student Council is to accurately represent the students of Barnstable High School by providing leadership and an outlet for their opinions/concerns. Its goal is to better the school while gaining the respect of the community.

Student Advisory Board

In a quiet room, Mr. Graves and the members of the Student Advisory Board discuss the issues currently affecting Barnstable High School.

The Student Advisory Board was designed as a means of bettering the school environment. Since its start, the members have worked hard to do just that. The board meets to discuss and debate school policy. According to Mr. Graves, the club's advisor, this year's agenda has been a rigorous one and has included debates on the following issues: the school budget, the Raider logo controversy, condom availability, and smoking in school restrooms.

Members of the Student Advisory Board feel that the club has an essential role at B.H.S. They take those topics previously discussed by the Student Council and bring them a step higher — to Mr. Graves and Mr. Fortune. "The issues that we deal with are important because they affect the whole student body and faculty," said senior Josh Eagle.

When asked what makes a good S.A.B. member, Mr. Graves responded, "A person who can see the whole picture objectively, one who can put his own opinions and biases aside. A good member should also be a good listener, have political awareness and the ability to express ideas clearly."

All members agree that this year's board is "open-minded and responsive." With this attitude the Student Advisory Board is sure to be successful.

N.H.S.

Barnstable High School's chapter of the National Honor Society includes thirty-eight students chosen for membership on the basis of grade-point average, character, leadership and service. According to advisor Mrs. Susanne Thibault, "The National Honor Society . . . recognizes not only student academic excellence, but also their participation in school and community service."

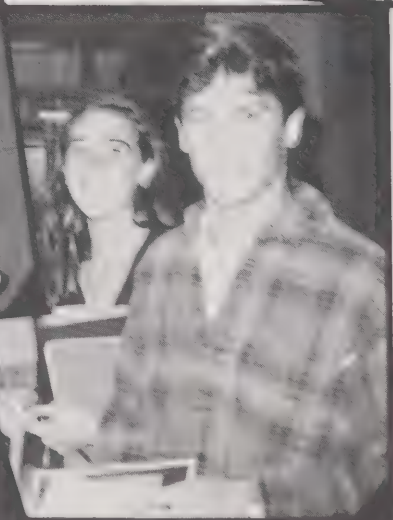

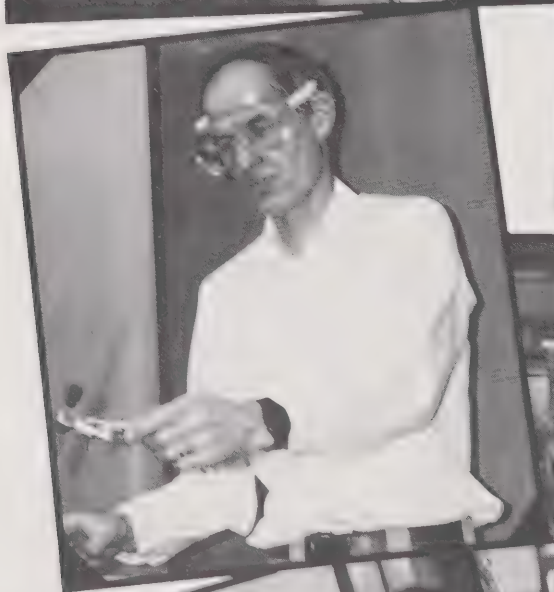

The club is run by President Josh Elias, Vice President Monica Mulally, Secretary Rebecca Gregoire and Treasurer Jason Reed.

Hoping to give back to those who have helped them, National Honor Society members tutor students who are having trouble in classes. NHS also raises money annually for a school scholarship. This year, as a community service project, N.H.S. worked in cooperation with the Cape and Islands Department of Social Services to fulfill the Christmas wishes of many needy families. Members collected donations from local businesses who were, for the most part, glad to help. In completing this project, all were left with a feeling of good-will.

"The community has given us so much that it's great for us to have the opportunity to give something back," said Josh.

Interact

The Interact Club, a service club for students, is in its first year at Barnstable High School. Through continued support by the Hyannis and Osterville Rotary Clubs as well as by faculty advisors, Interact has gained immediate recognition.

Interact was formed when two former school clubs, the American Field Service and Global Awareness combined. It is different from many other clubs in that there is a strict club constitution. Interact is led by President Stacey Foster, Vice-President Marisa Hedlund, Secretary Douglas Kocaba, and Treasurer Lynne Gadkowski. The club meets on alternating Tuesday evenings in the school library. Membership is strong, with attendance varying between fifteen and thirty students each meeting. According to Stacey, "Interact has gotten a lot done but still has a lot left to do." Recently, the club members raised money by selling refreshments at Drama productions which they later used to help build needed freshwater wells in Ghana. The "Peace Garden," at the base of the foreign language stairs, is also Interact-sponsored. In addition, the club traveled to New York this spring to see a Manhattan High School and visit the United Nations. Finally, Interact hosted a group of French exchange students during one of its many "cultural awareness" weeks.

"We've met a lot of new people and I'm glad to be a member," said senior Mary Neuben. All of the members have expressed this mutual feeling that Interact is "a great experience."

Imani Club

So often Barnstable High School students have misconceptions as to what the Imani Club is and who can be a member.

For starters — anyone is welcome. Former B.H.S. social studies teacher and current equity officer Mr. John Reed is the advisor of this group, which he describes as "a minority interest group that focuses on community service, volunteering projects and cultural enrichment."

This year's club celebrates its nineteenth anniversary. Although that in itself is certainly a great accomplishment, Mr. Reed feels that the club's greatest success has been "college placement and achievement. We've placed over seventy percent of our students in institutions of higher learning. I go one on one with the students and their families helping them fill out financial aid forms, etcetera, so that kids have a better chance of getting into schools. We try and urge students to do something unusual for the community."

Emphatically, Mr. Reed believes that the Imani Club is for anyone, not just the minority students at B.H.S. "We discuss a variety of issues besides minority experience." The club gives concerned students a forum. "I teach my kids to be self-reliant so that they won't be dependent on society or anyone else."

Mr. Reed stressed that Imani's main objective is to "raise interest in the minority students at B.H.S." Not surprisingly, his philosophy of life reads, "We are gathered here today to learn, to strengthen ourselves and our community."

Students Against Violence and Racism

A new organization started just this year, The Alliance Against Violence and Racism Club's main objective is to help prevent violence and racism at BHS through projects, activities, and discussions with peers. Formed by Mrs. Mason, Ms. Rogean, and Mrs. Thibault, the club is held together by officers Pam Roderick and David Adams (Co-presidents), Jeremiah Anderson (Vice-president), Jennifer Beuke (Secretary), and Paul LaQuerre (Treasurer).

So how do they expect to reach their aim? Throughout this school year, members have tried to attain them by going to workshops to learn about such topics as prejudice, violence — and even themselves. Many ideas of how to tackle such problems at BHS have sprung from these workshops.

In addition, some members attended a lecture on multicultural issues and then talked in a small group with nonmembers about the ideas discussed in the lecture. The Alliance has also planned a multicultural assembly spotlighting dancers, singers, as well as its own members. Another assembly, featuring Baywatch star, Gregory-Alan Williams, who saved an Asian American in the Los Angeles riots.

Moreover, some members have organized a Walk for Harmony in the spring, involving all members of the community. The Alliance took on the job of writing and performing skits for small groups on the issues important to young adults.

Co-president David Adams' comment summed up the general goals and feelings of the Alliance when he said, "No one clique at our school is better than another and we're trying to make students understand this."

S.A.D.D.

S.A.D.D. is a group of students dedicated to saving lives. Their message is aimed at urging teens to consider alternatives to driving drunk or riding with a friend who has been drinking.

S.A.D.D. hosts various events throughout the year to promote this important message. One of such events is the pre-prom assembly, which is designed to provoke students' thoughts and emotions. They also distribute a "Contract For Life" to every Barnstable High School Student. This parent/child agreement asks the child to call home for a ride if ever put in a position where the driver of a car has been drinking. It then asks the parents to agree to pick the child up without question, no matter what time of night. S.A.D.D. also sponsored an alcohol-free dance by which members hoped to raise both money and awareness. In addition, the club arranged for the National Presidents of S.A.D.D. and M.A.D.D. to speak to the entire student body and faculty. After the presentation, members gave out red ribbons, which were tied to car antennas to symbolize sober drivers. Several speakers also visited freshman health classes to further discuss the dangers of drinking and driving.

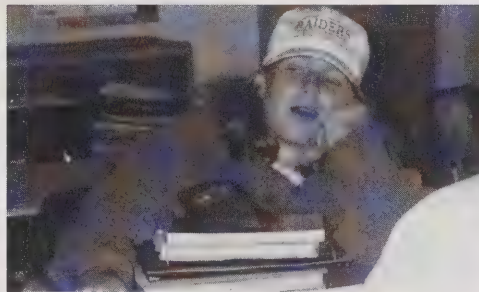

"I know that many of the students here drink, and we're not telling them they have to stop. We are asking, however, that students not drive drunk. Choose a designated driver and take turns being one," advised club president Jennifer Beuke.

AIDS Awareness

A new club, organized this past year, AIDS Awareness has had a tremendous impact on the student body. Both students and teachers took advantage of the opportunity to "become aware" this past December 1st by participating in "National AIDS Awareness Day." Many attended senior seminar and health classes in which speakers lectured on the effects of AIDS in many families and communities. And almost everybody wore red ribbons. "Our goal is to help people understand more about the disease. Hopefully this will eliminate some of the fear," says Amanda Lloyd, founder of the club. The members of the club feel strongly that they can make a difference as far as making more people aware. And in such a short time, they've done just that!

Recycle Club

The Recycling Club, under the direction of Ms. Susan West, is more, is more than just another club. Students from throughout BHS meet to discuss problems that exist due to the lack of recycling.

"Wondering why it is that there are some people out there who don't care enough to take the time out to change things for the better is the main question," said Ms. West. "We are here to make those who are blind, aware that recycling is the best way to save our planet. Right now there are billions of different things out there which are a threat to our well-being. For example, the pollution of dumps, sewers, streets, and private homes is where we go wrong."

Ms. West hopes that those with similar views will join in to help spread the word. One important highlight of the club is last year's members' attempts to set up recycling bins in each homeroom. Once a week a student would go to the rooms and collect the waste paper which would later be recycled at recycling plants. Members hope to utilize this project again.

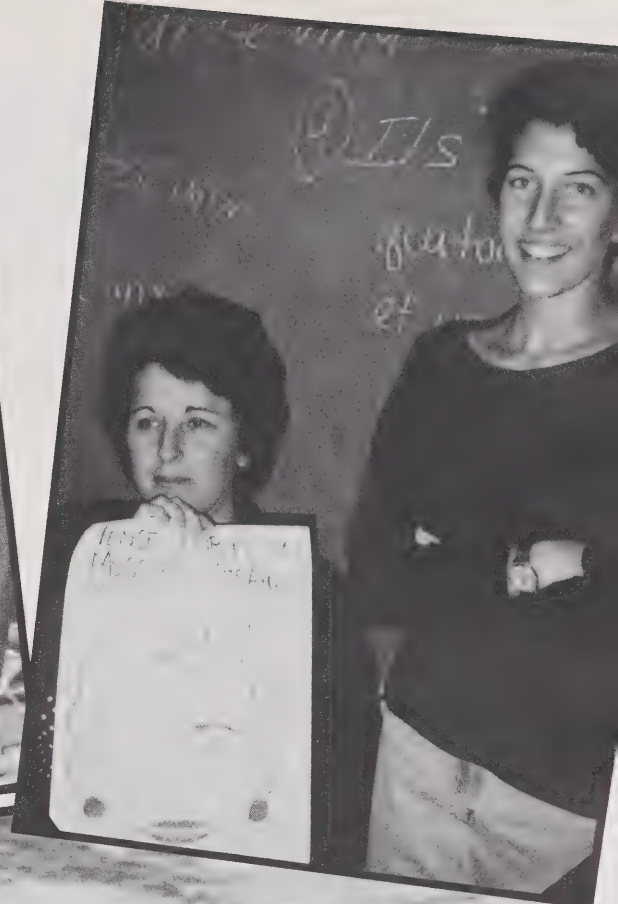

A senior club member summarized the organization's feelings and goals in saying, "There's no telling how far we could eventually go with our program being open to the school as well as the public; dozens of people will realize the importance of being conscientious in recycling."

Drama

The Drama Club has been even busier than usual during the past four years. It has put on eight different shows and two haunted houses. Drama productions of recent years include: A Christmas Carol, Godspell, The Sound of Music, The Hobbit, Annie, Pippin, Babes in Toyland, and Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat.

Although many students have participated in productions, according to Mr. Sullivan, several seniors have most notably contributed to the club: Justin Stewart, Nancy LeJava, Adam Moritz, Carina Culivian, Gus Shulenburg, Jayna Dolby, Lia Mercandetti, and Jennifer Witt. ALL the members, however, have played a major role in the club's success whether on or off stage.

"I have worked with Adam for about ten years now, and have watched him grow in both talent and size! Nancy has surprised me with her talent and magnificent singing voice," said Mr. Sullivan. He continued by saying, "Lia is a born leader capable of organizing large numbers of people. Jen is great when it comes to the costume closet. Carina and Justin have taken great strides in maturing their talent."

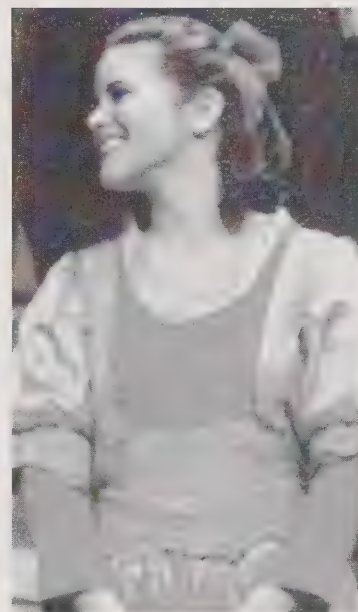

It is important to have devoted students in a club that requires so much preparation and organization. In bringing about a play's production, the cast and orchestra must first be chosen. After that, the production is in the hands of the students who must rehearse, sew costumes and build the sets. Lighting and sound are also important elements of a play.

All agree, however, that when the work is done and the play opens, they feel an overwhelming sense of accomplishment and excitement. Always, their hard work is rewarded with success.

"Drama has given me the self-confidence that I need to believe in myself. I know now that I can accomplish almost anything," said Carina. Others agreed with Carina, adding that "friendships" were the most valuable things the Drama Club had given them.

"Drama Club is a place where everyone can come together. It's like a melting pot; it gives people a chance to shine. It also gives students a chance to escape from everyday life — to find new people within themselves," beamed Nancy LeJava.

All in all, members and students alike feel enthusiastically about the club. Those who have participated in the productions feel that the experience is one they won't forget.

The Red Raider Marching Band, a club comprised of over 90 members, performs its music not only on the football field, but all over southern New England and beyond. This year the unit, with eleven seniors, performed its field show at many Massachusetts high schools, including Abington and Somerset. The band has also played in Connecticut at the Coast Guard Academy and Montville High School. With the last four years the marching musicians have played as far away as Heshey, Pennsylvania.

A typical competition will usually consist of many months of practice. Once arriving at the competition site all of the band members unload their instruments and get into uniform. If they arrive early enough, some members will watch other bands perform. When it comes time for the band to go on, the members will get together and warm up. And then it's on to the field! A typical marching show lasts about 12 minutes and is usually comprised of three or more songs.

The members of the band are dedicated to what they do. Not only do they rehearse every day during the school year, they also spend lots of time at school during the summer and after school. There is also a strong sense of student leadership, from the Drum Majors to the squad Captain, all the way down to the individual players. Squad Captain Scott Benjamin said, "I'm in the band for the competition, the comradeship, and most of all to have fun doing something I love!"

The band is also a family. Senior Jennifer French said that, "Band is like a big family; you love them, but you really hate them." Senior Melissa Cotter agreed, saying, "Band is like a family. We all come together for a common goal — to put on one hell of a show."

The Barnstable High School Concert Band, made up of the same members as the marching band, play music which is challenging as well as pleasing to listen to. Band Director Mr. Anthony Stevens conducts the band as well as instructing them. In the past four years the band has played a variety of musical pieces like "Robin Hood — Prince of Thieves," "Charlie Brown," "Light Eternal," and "Jurassic Park." As sophomore Paul Ginnerthy explained, "Concert Band allows us to bring our powerful sound off the field and allow us to utilize that power to create great music!"

Orchestra

Although it has faced major coaching changes this year, the color guard has managed to hold itself together due mostly to the leadership of senior co-captains Christina Lewis and Meika Cappola. According to Christina, she and Meika were much more responsible for the team's unity, as well as its productivity. "We wrote many of the team's routines and were in charge of running the team in general. It was harder, but it was still a lot of fun."

Christina, who has participated in color guard throughout her high school career, feels that it has taught her greater self-discipline. "Color guard is a lot more than just throwing things in the air. You have to put a great deal of time into learning the routines. You also need to have a really positive attitude."

Senior Abigail Buckler agrees that color guard is, "a lot of hard work." She says that learning the basic skills isn't the difficult part, rather perfecting the routines is the major obstacle. "To throw all the skills together and then put them all to music is much, much harder."

Beyond their usual performances at football games, the color guard has also attended several competitions in Massachusetts, as well as two in Connecticut. Unfortunately, although they have had a lot of support from parents and Mr. Fortune, many of the team's members wish for more student support at local competitions.

Though the team was fairly new this year and did have its setbacks, the seniors, as well as the captains have really held everything together. Sophomore Raina Tillman said, "Meika was one of the best captains I have ever had. She was easy to get along with and pushed you to work hard without actually forcing you. She really knows what she is doing."

And, as a result, so did the rest of the squad.

The speech team is experiencing a year of transition. With a change in advisors, the team is relying heavily on the leadership of captains Courtney Butler and Maria Schloerb. A senior, Courtney said, "It's been hard without Mrs. Wollak, but Mrs. Cordeiro is doing a good job." The speech team competes in state tournaments which are held once a month. The members compete in categories such as play reading, children's literature and humorous interpretation. They practice often, both on their own and with the assistance of veteran members. "Everyone helps each other. All of us have our strong and our weak points," said senior Jillian Smith-Kaufman. In a recent competition at Natick High School, sophomore Josh Sacht made it to the finals and to the multiple reading team. Moreover, in a competition at Tabor Academy, Barnstable placed first in the small school division. According to Courtney, "The underclassmen have a lot of potential." She predicts that they will be very competitive in the upcoming years.

E.S.L.

The ESL Club, (English as a Second Language), one of the newest additions to Barnstable High School, is led by Mrs. Renate Sands and Mrs. Patricia Leon-Finan. The ESL Club is actually an extension of the ESL class and helps to provide outside activities for the students involved.

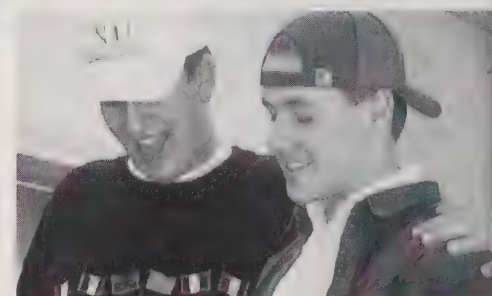

The purpose of the ESL Club, according to Mrs. Sands is, "to introduce Cape Cod and the Boston area to students from other countries. The club also plans special events to boost morale."

This year Mrs. Sands has scheduled several activities, including field trips to Plymouth Plantation, Provincetown and the Boston Museum of Science. The ESL Club also participates in the school field day and works with other ESL classes at the middle school and sixth grade school.

Many of the members like the opportunity to go on field trips with their friends. "I had to be in it because all of my friends were in it," said junior Samira Morais. "I heard my friend talking about how much fun she had had. I asked her where she had so much fun and she said 'ESL' and I had to join."

Mrs. Sands enjoys the ESL Club because it gives her a chance to know the students "more informally. It gives the students a chance to organize their own activities and helps them to feel more a part of the school. Also, they have fun together." Mrs. Sands also stressed that the ESL Club was not just for people from different countries. All students are welcome to attend any meeting.

Broadcasting Club

“I
TV!!”

So what is this new Broadcasting Club everyone's hearing about anyway? According to club advisor and English teacher Mr. Jeffrey Billard, it is “a chance for those taking broadcasting classes to get away from the serious stuff and be more artistic.”

A fledgling organization, the Broadcasting Club is only in its first stages of development. According to senior Julie DeBenedictis, “There have only been a few meetings, but getting organized has not been easy.”

Because the club has no specific structure, members are able to create their own outline of activities. Mr. Billard said that members, who are usually students from his broadcasting classes, can work on a variety of aspects of video productions, including filming, acting, producing, and editing.

Mr. Billard hopes to have student productions begin airing on Barnstable's school T.V. station, Channel 21 in the spring.

Art Club

The Art Club, a fairly new club begun just last year, has helped to provide interested art students with "workshop time and space where students can work on existing or extracurricular projects," according to Art Club advisor, Mr. Carl Lopes.

Most members agreed that their main reason for joining the Art Club was that it gave them a chance to experiment and try new ideas that they usually did not have time for in class. "In class, I don't have a lot of time to work on other projects besides the ones assigned. In Art Club, I can design and pursue my own ideas," said senior Victoria Schilling.

Senior Andy Cloutier also agreed that the added time was a major factor in his joining the Art Club. "The Art Club gives me a longer period of time, instead of the usual 45 minutes, where I can work on whatever project I want."

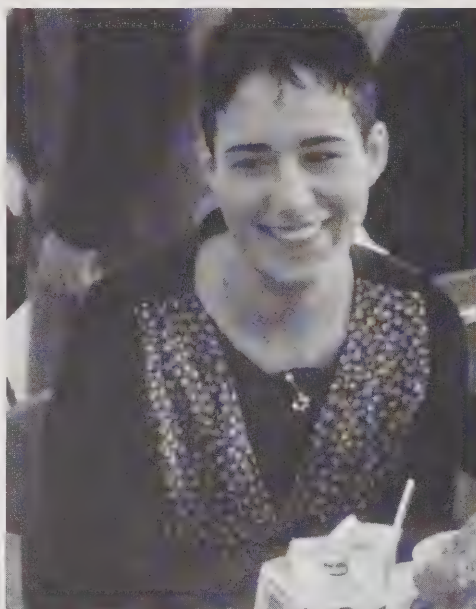

Besides providing extra time to work on projects, the Art Club also goes on field trips to art galleries, art studios and museums. Also this year, a group of students went to local nursing homes and painted the windows with different holiday scenes.

Also, according to junior Chandan Clough, the Art Club is helpful because it supplies him with, "different and expensive art supplies. Unless you had a million dollars, you really couldn't afford most of them."

For sophomore Eric Chapman, one problem with the Art Club is that, "there really aren't too many regulars. Club meetings range from usually five or six people to sometimes twenty. Hopefully, that will change as more people learn about it."

"The Art Club is full of students who like creating," Mr. Lopes added. "Many of the students want to become professional artists, and the Art Club gives students the opportunity to interact with one another while also providing inspiration."

Sounds like a perfect combination.

Dance Club

Barnstable High School has always been known for its multitude of talented students. Yet another group of talented students was discovered just last year by advisor Mrs. Lisa Potts. These gifted students make up the high school's dance club, "Collage." It's difficult to believe that many had never danced before this year. Collage is composed of many different students from many different backgrounds and cultures. The dances that performed include ballet, modern jazz, hip-hop, and Scottish step dancing. The group has performed for the M.L.K. Talent Concert, at B.H.S.'s "Nostalgia Night," and at the Cape Cod Community College's College Fair.

"This group has given me experience in something I really want to do as well confidence and a positive self-esteem. At first I was nervous about performing in front of people, but now I feel fine and I actually enjoy it," said senior Tamara Sumpter.

"Collage" is yet another group that demonstrates Barnstable High School students' strength and willingness to do well in whatever activity they choose.

The field hockey team, despite its losing record, displayed an enormous amount of enthusiasm, energy and commitment.

"Everyone had shining moments, but unfortunately it wasn't consistent," said Coach Heather Rogorzenski about the team's play. She went on to say that the team was extremely enthusiastic about playing.

Forwards Lynne Gadkowski (captain), Kim Gates (captain), Courtney Evans, Erica Rhude and Stacey Foster consistently worked well together even though the Raiders didn't tally an abundance of goals. They were supported by midfielders Lisa Zitola and Kelly Hallett. The defense was led by Beth Madden (captain), Melissa Klotz and Douglas Kocaba.

This year's Old Clony League All-Stars were Beth and Douglas. Beth went on to be a Cape and Islands All-Star. Douglas and goalie Shannon Bryant received Honorable Mention.

What were the Raiders' best games? "We played well against Bridgewater-Raynham," said Coach R. "The type of play brought both teams to peak performance."

The team seemed to feel that the game against D-Y was its strongest. "The score didn't reflect the effort and dedication that went into that game," said Lynne.

Regarding the last game of the season, Coach R. said, "D-Y is an intense and quick team. We contained them really well and didn't allow them to shoot."

Despite its 5-9-4 record, the field hockey team showed individual improvements and hopes to combine them more efficiently next year.

For the third straight year, the HS golf team captured the old Colony League title, this year with a 14-2 league record and an overall record of 18-2. The team also finished among the top five teams in the state, thus qualifying for the South Sectional Finals once again. Senior Michael Scioletti, also ranked fifth in the state, will be playing in the state finals in June.

Plymouth and arch-rival Falmouth presented the greatest challenges to this year's team. The golf team played both teams twice and split each series, the only blemishes on their near-perfect record. "The Plymouth match was a disaster. Our top men lost their concentration and could not get back in the zone," said Coach Bob Kingman. "The Falmouth match was a different story. We had already won the OCL championship and I think the team wasn't up to this match."

This season, however, was dominated by strengths, not weaknesses. According to senior Paul Bacon, the team's strength lay in the friendships between players. Senior Peter Princi noted that this year's team had a different attitude: "It was much better this year. We actually had a lot of fun practicing and playing in the matches." And for a good reason. The seniors finished off a remarkable four years with three consecutive OCL titles and another state tournament.

Asked about his seniors, Coach Kingman found it easy to sing their praises. "Both Mike Scioletti, a three-year All-Star, and Peter Princi, a two-year All-Star, were long off the tee," he said, while Paul Bacon, another two-year All Star, and Matt Lott were, "good all-around players." "When you needed a win, Matt was there," added Mr. Kingman. Scioletti summed up for the senior golfers by saying, "This year's seniors were in a different class." Coach Kingman pointed to the underclassmen on the team as another strong point. "Our strength comes from the bottom four golfers, who usually destroy the competition."

Giving due credit to Coach Kingman, Mike Scioletti said, "Mr. Kingman's job as head coach was unbelievable. What he did for us in terms of equipment, preparation and college recommendations was untoppable."

In return, Coach Kingman wished, "the best of luck to our senior golfers. I hope to see them continue with golf in the future."

OCL All-Stars: Tania McIntyre
Christine Fraughton

Hoping to improve on last year's 6-2 record, the girls soccer team surpassed even their own expectations, finishing at 8-8-2. The Raiders still fell one point shy of qualifying for state tournament play, but their disappointment was a sign of how far they came in 1993.

"It was our best season yet. I couldn't have been happier with the team. We had a lot of heart," commented team tri-captain Robyn Michonski. Coach Wes Shrum added that it was the big 4-1 win over Weymouth in the third game of the season that, "made us believe in ourselves." In this game, Barnstable's offense and defense shown as the girls proved that they could indeed play in the competitive Old Colony League (Barnstable had never beaten Weymouth before).

This confidence carried them throughout the season and was especially evident in their 1-0 victory over perennial league power Silver Lake. This shut-out was a well-earned and long-awaited win. Sophomore center halfback Christine Fraughton banged in the eventual gamewinner in the first half. In order to preserve their lead, the ladies merely had to step up their defense to prevent a tying goal. Maintaining the lead was a big job for junior goalie Tania McIntyre, but she teamed up with her rock-solid defense in a stellar effort which resulted in the shutout.

"I've been waiting four years to beat them!" exclaimed Michonski afterwards. "It was a very exciting game. The suspense of the second half kept the entire team in full spirits and on the edge of the bench," added fullback Renee Mimmo. Mid-fielder Jill Sauro added that both Silver Lake and Weymouth, "were such strong clubs. It just shows how much we've improved." The improved teamwork and passing were a result of hard work during practices, a new midfield setup and the inclusion of some freshman talent in the form of midfielders Meghan McDermott, Sarah Jay and Jolyn Ahnquist and forward Vicky Shalian.

Despite being outnumbered by these and other underclassmen, it was the seniors who kept the team together. "The senior captains, Hazel Richmond and Robyn Michonski, kept us playing as a team," pointed out Marisa Hedlund. "They really wanted us to have a successful season." All of the seniors — Michonski, Richmond, Hedlund, Mimmo, Sauro, and Amy Proccaccini — made valuable contributions to the team. Michonski, Richmond and Mimmo anchored the defense along with junior Amanda George. Hedlund, Sauro, and stellar sophomore Fraughton in the midfield helped out both offensively and defensively, while Proccaccini created many goal-scoring opportunities along with juniors Sarah Johnson and Nichole Way. Tri-captain and goalie McIntyre, another junior, kept the team in many of the games with her goal-denial skills.

With constant improvement and the promise of new talent arriving to fill the substantial gap being left by the departing seniors, it's a given that this team will just keep getting better. "The only way the team will go is up," was Sauro's assessment.

Who could disagree?

OCL All-Star: David McCormack

Despite their 5-10-2 overall record, the boys soccer team had a strong season, a season that included Coach Harry Evans' 200th win. "They became more competitive because they believed they could beat any team they played," said Coach Evans.

According to Evans, this team had much more effective leadership from the seniors than last year's team. "They (the seniors) had excellent leadership qualities and they became much more competitive," Evans said, referring also to co-captains Mike Reardon and Dave McCormack.

Senior Tom Carvahlo agreed. "We came together as a team," he said.

Although the Raiders lost ten games, seven of those games were lost by one or two goals. "Sometimes they had an error and had to play catch-up. The difference is that other teams made breaks and took more advantages quickly," said Evans.

Talking about this 200th victory, which came after they beat Taunton 4-1, Evans said, "It was a milestone that I was happy to reach. In one sense it means I've been around for that many years (21). In another sense we won that many games. It was very enjoyable to do it with this team; they were hard workers."

Because they only had 16 players, "each players contributed significantly when called upon," said Evans.

"The team lost two players early in the season, Cliff Gregoire and John Larusso, and they could've been a valuable addition to the team," said Carvahlo.

"A surprise this year was Derek Newman. Newman's play resembled a vacuum cleaner because he took away all the other teams chances. B. J. Jones led the fullbacks and was the leader with his 'Voltron-like' powers. He got it from his 'Big-V' t-shirt," according to Dave McCormack, the only Boys OCL Soccer All-Star.

"Greg Powell, Mike Medeiros, Dave Parke, and Dan Farrell were known as the Voit group for the soccer ball that they drew their power from," said Tom.

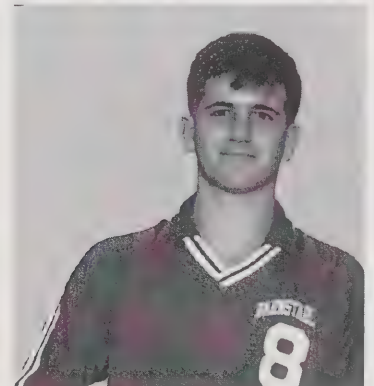

Even though next year's team will lose six seniors, Coach Evans thinks they will improve. "We have a good freshman class coming in, another four or five JV's who will step up and there is a greater commitment to play during the off-season. I think our kids are willing to do it."

"The highlight of our season was getting Harry's 200th victory and knocking Falmouth out of the tournament in the last game of the season," said Carvahlo. The Raiders tied the Clippers 2-2.

Seven players were named to the All Cape and Islands Soccer Team. Dave McCormack and B. J. Jones made the first team, and Mike Reardon and Ceamus McDermott made the second team. Honorable mentions went to Dan Ferrell, Mark Rose (goalie), and Greg Powell.

"We knew what it was like to be defeated and we wanted to know the feeling of being the winner," said senior co-captain Kelly Griffin. That dream became reality when the Raiders took home their first state championship. Ironically, one of the keys to this year's success was the heartbreaking loss to New Bedford in the sectional finals last year, which gave them the desire to be the best this year. The girls trained over the summer and played volleyball every chance they had. When the season began the team set their goals early. Those included beating such teams as New Bedford and North Quincy and going beyond the South Sectionals finals. There were no individual goals. The hopes this season were pinned on team success and that is what the girls achieved.

The Raiders won their first three games before heading into the game everyone had been waiting for: New Bedford. They went in with confidence and desire and came out victorious. Between the attack led by Lina Rackauskas and the setting of senior Lynn Mulkeen, there was no stopping Barnstable. The Raiders went on to win the next eight games, including an incredible victory over two-line defending state champion North Quincy. This was something that very few teams have done in the past and a first for Barnstable.

The first of their two losses came soon after to perennial arch-rival New Bedford. However, the girls only looked at the positive side of their defeat. They studied and improved some of the weak areas in their game and went into the next game stronger than ever.

Although Barnstable's record was nearly perfect,

Coach Tom Turco increased the intensity and difficulty of the practices. As tournament time neared, the girls rarely were home for dinner and were usually too exhausted to eat if they were. Coach Turco relied on his philosophy: "It doesn't matter who wins at the beginning, it's who wins in the end that counts."

The Raiders picked up easy wins over Weymouth, Falmouth, Notre Dame and Quincy. They even crushed North Quincy once again and scored a big win over Durfee. Their final game of the season was against five-year Division Two state champion Medway, which resulted in a tough 9-15, 7-15 loss. Still, the loss served as good preparation for what Barnstable would face in the tournament.

The Raiders, seeded second in the state, drew a bye in the quarterfinal of the South Sectionals. In the South Sectional semifinal, Barnstable swept Durfee in a noisy BHS gym to earn the spot they'd been eyeing for months: the South Sectional finals against New Bedford at Wheaton College.

To many returning players this was déjà vu. In 1992, the same pairing had occurred and New Bedford had taken away what seemed a certain Raider victory in the fifth game. This year, however, it was Barnstable's turn. Through an intense game both teams fought hard, but Barnstable had what it took, nailing the Whalers and moving on to play North Quincy in the state semifinals.

Junior Katie Allbecker said, "I thought that if we got by New Bedford we would have a good shot at winning the state championship." The girls had already gone further than any Barnstable volleyball team ever and they were ready to continue setting new records. In a thrilling victory over North Quincy, the Raiders knocked them out of the state finals for the first time in years and put Barnstable there for the first time ever. The girls realized that they were only three winning games away from making their dream come true.

As the state finals approached, Coach Turco emphasized to the team that this was their turn and the best thing they could do was play in such a way that they would never have any regrets. That's exactly what they did. They went in full force against Western Mass champ Marlboro, dominating the court. Marlboro players could not believe their eyes when they saw such players as Lina Rackauskas and Katie Allbecker attacking the ball. With Michelle Cunningham setting the ball and Cathie Harrington, Lynn Mulkeen, Kelly Griffin, Monika Heideman and Lydia Buckley all coming together, there was no stopping Barnstable. The Raiders played at a much higher level of skill as well as intensity and deservingly took the state title.

The Red Raiders had no regrets after this amazing season. "I'm very happy with this season. There is nothing better that could have happened during my senior year," said co-captain Mulkeen. Freshman Lindsay Bateman stated that she was, "glad she got the experience and enjoyed being a part of it."

Whether it was the players on the court, the JV's on the bench, or the loyal fans in the stands, everyone at BHS was a part of this year's success, a year that will go down in BHS sports history.

They started the season with hopes for a winning record and weekly improvement. After their 6-0 pre-season shutout of non-league power Brockton, however, they sensed and added a Super Bowl berth to their hopes. These hopes, built on a firm foundation of an intractable defense and a volatile offense, grew by the game as the 1993 Raider football team marched through their opposition. Their dreams began to materialize when they crushed Plymouth 14-6 in the eighth game of the season. However, those dreams vanished tragically the next week when the Raiders fell to Quincy, 42-28.

Despite this letdown, the team pulled itself together for the huge Thanksgiving Day game against Falmouth. "Because it (the loss) happened just before Falmouth, it was a little easier to get them back on track," said Head Coach Paul "Spanky" Demanche. The Raiders, showing their resilience, bounced back for a thrilling come-from-behind triumph over the Clippers.

Falmouth established a steady ball-control offense for the most of the first half. This resulted in Falmouth's entering the second half leading, 6-0 (the missed PAT would prove fatal). Barnstable, fueled by the desire for victory and aided by some defensive adjustments, struck quickly, with senior receiver Scott Rose, junior quarterback Mickey Fein and the entire offensive line teaming up for the winning seven points. In a momentary switch of positions, Rose assumed Fein's position and the line's excellent blocking provided the protection that enabled Rose to throw to Fein, who dove into the end zone for the touchdown. With the game tied at six, the Raiders' fate rested in Rose's foot as he prepared himself for the PAT. With both teams praying for opposite results, Rose kicked the point-after. Barnstable's defense was able to hold Falmouth back and the offense ground out first down after first down to run down the clock and seal the 7-6 victory.

This memorable game was merely an end to a season full of highlights. "In terms of victories, Plymouth was the highlight," said senior offensive guard Jason Reed. "Without a doubt, (that) was the best I've ever felt," agreed fullback Joe Kennedy. "We had a huge challenge, we rose to it, and at the end we could honestly say we gave everything we had," the Raider co-captain added. Coach Demanche agreed that, "the big victory over Plymouth was the highlight of the season." Defensive tackle Keith Mygan noted also that, "the tie against West Haven (was a highlight) because we came back in less than a quarter and a half." You may disagree on the high points, but it's unanimous that this was the best season that Raider football has seen in a long while. In fact, the 7-2-1 finish was the best record yet for Barnstable in Division I.

"The team this year is unlike any other that I've been a part of. Everybody from sophomores to seniors has respect for their fellow players. That unity makes a loss bearable and a victory so much sweeter," Kennedy said. Kennedy was recognized by his teammates along with Reed, middle linebacker and co-captain Kevin Houston, defensive tackle and co-captain Justin Cazeault, split end Ian MacAllister, defensive end John Hill, tailback Jasen O'Neil, nose guard Jared Ferris and Mygan as making significant contributions on and off the field. O'Neil was recognized as the Old Colony League Player of the Year, finishing a glittering career that accounted for 3600 yards and 36 touchdowns. Josh Hersey (pictured) concluded that this year's seniors, "each contributed in their own little way." Coach Demanche agreed with him. "All 19 shared in our success, but our four captains — Kennedy, Houston, O'Neil and Cazeault — made exceptional contributions." Mr. Demanche also commented that it was this, "senior leadership" that made the season so successful. The parting of these dynamic leaders will leave a tremendous void for the underclassmen to fill, but a great example to follow.

This year's cross-country team endured one of its most demanding campaigns ever, from a tough pre-season to a rash of injuries, but ended on the upswing with both individual and team successes.

The boys squad, led by co-captains Alex Wells and senior Gus Schulenburg, had two challenges before they even got underway: the loss of four-year star Jon Way, and season-ending injuries to top runners Rich Roser and John Cash. Junior Mike Brunelle and freshman Mike Merrill stepped into the vacated spots as team leaders. Although the battered runners posted just three victories, one came against Falmouth in a finish that Coach Don Smith described as "hotly contested and protested." Senior Josh Elias spoke glowingly of the Falmouth meet: "As a senior, I was proud. This was definitely the highlight of the whole season!"

The girls, meanwhile, ran off a 4-4 mark in the OCL that could easily have been 6-2, as one of the losses was by five points and another by just three. Against OCL powerhouse North Quincy, the Raider girls were on the verge of a huge upset, as Heather MacLane and Michelle Giddings were in the lead and Kara Nolan and Beth Murphy were just two places back. The upset bid fell short when Giddings fell and injured herself on the second loop at Hathaway's Pond. Giddings' injury may also have cost the girls a big win against Weymouth, who had to hold on to beat the Giddings-less Raiders by three.

The ups and downs continued for the Raider runners throughout the fall. Sophomore MacLane's first-place finish against North Quincy was the second-fastest time ever by a Barnstable girl. She and Giddings later set course records at Taunton and Bridgewater, respectively. Then, at Franklin Park, MacLane finished furiously, placing twelfth in a field of 160. It seemed as if her finish had guaranteed her a slot in the All-States as one of the seven fastest runners not on a top five team. When the results were posted, MacLane finished eighth — one place and one second out of the last qualifying spot.

Despite the disappointments, the cross-country team is on the rise. With the development of several fine younger runners, like Giddings, MacLane and Merrill (he ran Hathaway's in 17:28, just six seconds off Jon Way's best freshman mark — and Way only went on to finish fifth in the state in '92) and a record turnout of participants — 45 — everyone will be looking forward to '94.

Coach Smith cited the seniors "for their energy, courage and zest for living" and added, "They will be greatly missed." Looking toward next year, the coach simply mentioned his team's slogan: "The pain goes away, the pride lasts forever."

The 1993 cross-country team lived up to those words.

The girls basketball team had a simply amazing season. Posting its best record in years, the Raiders qualified for the tournament, despite the presence of only one senior, Kara Thauer, a forward for the Raiders since her freshman year. Junior Tania McIntyre led the team in points once again. Capping an incredible regular season, she became the first BHS girl ever to score 1000 points, notching the magic number in the 76-58 first-round tournament win over Attleboro. Along with McIntyre, sophomore guard Christine Fauton and junior forwards Lisie Antkowiak and Michelle Cunningham were the heart and soul of the team.

Going into the tournament, the Raiders, seeded fifth, were both excited and confident, and well they should have been. With the all-around play of McIntyre, the talent of Fauton, the experience of Thauer and Antkowiak, and the knack for winning of Cunningham, the Raiders seemed poised for a legitimate run at a state title. At press time the girls were readying for their second-round game against Brockton.

With a young team Barnstable should continue to improve over the next few years. Next year, the Raiders should once again go deep into the tournament and carry on their new winning tradition.

Not a whole lot went right for Coach Mark Sullivan and the boys basketball team. Four straight losses to open the season, a killer injury to key starter Mike Scioletti and more than a few bad breaks added up to a disappointing year.

Three of those four losses that put the Raiders in a hole right away were by two, three and four points. But, coming as early as they did, and coupled with Scioletti's back woes, the Raiders faced a huge struggle to collect the 12 wins they'd need to make it to the tournament again. The boys just couldn't get hot for long; their longest win streak was just three games.

Coach Sullivan knew going in that his team had "a willingness to play hard," but he also was aware that "we lacked depth and experience."

As the losses began to accumulate and it was obvious that a tournament appearance was no longer a possibility, the main attraction was junior Mickey Fein, who became the focus of the Raider offense. Fein took lots of shots and scored lots of points, but the Raiders still kept coming up short. By season's end, his chance to become the next member of Barnstable's 1,000 point club became more and more likely. He could reach that mark next season.

With the season winding down, Raider fans were treated to wins in three of the team's final four games. The Raiders took their second game from Weymouth, a 74-68 shootout on the road. Then it was a defeat of Plymouth, which had put a 70-45 hurt on Barnstable back in January. A heart-breaking loss to Falmouth would have been the finale, except that an early February storm had wiped out a game at Quincy.

How fitting that the snake-bitten season would end far from home on a frigid night during February vacation. With nothing but pride on the line, the Raiders rose up to defeat Quincy, 84-77, despite the cold, despite the bus ride, despite the extension of the season into vacation, and despite the no-show of senior Kevin Houston. One last time, the Raiders showed some character.

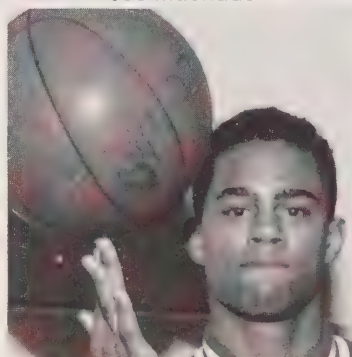

Next year can only be better. Some younger players gained valuable experience this year, and with Mickey Fein ready to run and gun again, Raider basketball should be back on top.

OCL All-Stars: Chrissy McCutcheon — vault
Jackie Lyons — beam

The gymnastics team posted yet another winning year, with a record of 10 wins, 2 losses and one tie. First-year coach Steve Francis, a collegiate All-American gymnast, is considered by many to be the best thing to happen to Barnstable gymnastics in a long time. His coaching and the talent of the team made an ideal combination.

The Raiders were led by senior all-around competitors Chrissy McCutcheon and Caitlin Dillon, who each competed in all four events: vault, bars, beam and floor exercise. McCutcheon was especially gifted on the vault in addition to having an exciting floor routine. Dillon also had a great floor routine and was exceptional on the beam.

Joining them was senior, Page Pena. Although she was injured for much of the season and could only complete her floor routine three times, she has been an important member of the gymnastics team for the past four years.

Two pleasant surprises were senior Kelly Griffin and junior Nicole Way, who returned to gymnastics after a three-year break. Griffin did a great job on the bars and the vault, while Way dominated the vault and floor with her incredible strength and power.

Among the underclassmen, junior Lindsey Smith had a flawless floor routine as well as a good bar routine. Carleen Carpenter, a sophomore, was a tough competitor in all the events and freshmen Jackie Lyons and Gina Risio both performed excellent beam routines.

The Raiders' biggest competition this year came from Weymouth, Randolph and Plymouth. Barnstable was defeated by both Weymouth and Randolph but managed to tie Plymouth, which was just as good as a victory, according to the Barnstable gymnasts.

Next year the team is expected to do well. Dillon predicts that, "Nicole Way, Carleen Carpenter, and Jackie Lyons will be the top gymnasts next season."

Although Barnstable improved remarkably as a team, there were two individual awards. McCutcheon repeated as an OCL All-Star and was joined by Lyons, who was an All-Star on the beam.

Coach Francis was very pleased with this season's results and wishes the best of luck to the seniors.

OCL All-Stars: Mike Schulz
Jared Dwyer

The Red Raider hockey team has shed the mediocre predictions for the 1994 season, running their record to an impressive 13-6-1. After a year's absence, the team once again qualified for the MIAA State Tournament. All this despite the loss of the Kennedy Rink for early season games and practices.

After losing three of their first four games, the Raiders crapped and hustled to wins in 12 of their next 15 games. The regular season highlight was the second war against highly-favored rival Falmouth. Riveting and suspenseful, the game ended in a 3-all tie. "It was a hard-played, physical game. I was happy with the tie, but we should have won," commented senior forward Scott Leeman.

According to senior captain Mike Schultz, "The team is very hard working and has the desire to win." This comment was echoed by senior defenseman Jon "Bubba" Alger: "The team is filled with hard workers that don't have the best kills, but have the hearts of lions."

Notable contributions have come from sophomore forward Chris Rogers, Leeman, senior forward Mark Butler and Schultz. Senior forwards Sean O'Brien, Mike Reardon, Steve Lakis, Ken Silva and Chris King have also contributed to the offense, while Alger has helped out tremendously on defense. Junior Jared Dwyer has played an impressive first season in net.

With the strong contingent of underclassmen remaining to replace the departing seniors, it is certain that the Raiders will continue their winning ways on the ice next season. At press time, however, Coach Melc and the team were focused only on first-round opponent, New Bedford.

Another Garden party!

Raiders fall in final, but it's still . . .

A YEAR TO REMEMBER!

If anybody had told you that the Barnstable hockey team would still be playing late in March, you'd have figured that it would only have been because the guys were getting together at the arcade for an air hockey tournament. Well, the Raiders were still playing late in March, but they weren't playing at an arcade, but at Boston Garden, and they weren't playing air hockey, either. They were in a tournament, though. The one for the state title.

Based on last year, nobody gave the Raiders much chance to make the tournament, let alone reach the finals. Not only had the team managed only six wins and failed to reach the playoffs for the first time in a decade, but they had also lost star goalie Mark Northup to Cushing Academy. (Northup had only led Barnstable to its most recent state title during his freshman year.) Then the Kennedy Rink was closed, the team opened with seven straight road games, and practices began at Tony Kent Arena before the sun came up.

Maybe it was then that Coach Pete Melchiono knew he had the rest of the OCL just where he wanted them.

Nothing seemed to matter, though. Coach Melc found another top goalie in junior Jared Dwyer, built around his returning players and emphasized work and more work. The team cruised into the tournament, peaking at just the right time, with seven straight wins to close the regular season. After a long layoff, the Raiders reached the championship game against Boston College High School with a unique "hat trick." Three wins, courtesy of a hat trick in each one. First it was Chris Rogers, who bagged his three goals against New Bedford, as the Raiders won, 5-3. Steve Lakis did the honors against the top seed in Division I, Newton North, in a 4-2 Barnstable victory. Then the torrid Lakis struck again in the semifinals against North Quincy, a 5-2 Raider triumph.

As hot as they were heading into the Garden, the Raiders' blood was as cold as the ice they skated on. Dwyer, the picture of calm under pressure, along with solid, and stolid, All-Star Mike Schulz and converted senior Sean O'Brien anchored a Raider defense that just didn't get rattled. Sharpshooters Rogers, Lakis and Chris Graham played with increasing confidence for this little team that thought it could.

And so it came down to Sunday, March 20th, the first day of spring. It was also the day the magic ran out, as the Raiders fell to BC High, 7-2. They slipped behind early, as they so often had this season, but this time they just couldn't get back in it. They made it as close as 4-2 before the roof fell in.

But who can criticize them? They started the year without a goalie and without a rink and finished it at the Garden with a chance to win it all. This year's hockey team made the most of it.

Coach John Anderson, Coach Harry Evans.

Barnstable's 1993 lacrosse team ended its season with a solid 9-6 record overall and a 3-5 league record. The team was led by the stellar play of Mark Northrup and excellent work between the pipes by John Hill.

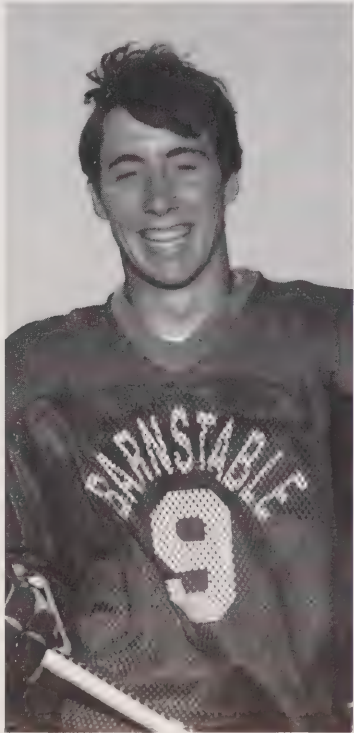

What's the outlook for '94? The Raiders face a few big hurdles, notably the loss of Northrup, who led the league in scoring, to private school, and the loss of eight tough seniors. "Our offense will have to shoot more and create better opportunities," said John Hill. To fill the gap left by Northrup's absence, the Raiders are relying on strongman Todd Mendes to step up from defense.

And how about that defense, which lost many key players to graduation? Senior Michael Reardon felt that "this year's defense will have to step it up a notch. Not just seniors, but a few underclassmen will have to come up big."

If Captain Mark Butler is healthy, the team is able to establish the necessary team unity, and if John Hill has another big year, the Raiders should be fine. One team goal? Defeating perennial powers such as Weymouth and Hingham. And of course, the Raiders would love another crack at B.C. High, who last year knocked Barnstable out of tournament play in a hard-fought 11-10 nailbiter.

The 1993 Raider softball team finished the season with a record of 11 wins and 9 losses. With a new coach, Mr. Bob Kahelin, and the loss of many starters, it was a year of rebuilding. Fortunately there was plenty of young talent on the team; in the starting line-up there were eight sophomores and one junior. Christine Frauton, a pitcher, was named an OCL All-Star and remained tough in every game. Michelle Cunningham, also an OCL All-Star, and Tanya McIntyre led the infield on defense. Kelly Griffin and Katie Allbecker took charge in the outfield, and catcher Shannon Bryant was tough behind the plate.

The 1994 season should be successful. With all starting players returning, Barnstable will be a competitive opponent for strong teams such as Taunton and Weymouth. "I feel that because we have already had the experience of working together, we will have a great season," said senior Kelly Griffin. The team is full of potential.

At the plate, big hitters like Michelle Cunningham will lead the scoring while the defense can stop any ball. With the superb pitching of Frauton and the leadership of seniors Griffin and Cailin Field, this team appears to have a great deal of promise. "I think that with the potential of this team, we should go really far this year," said Field, who along with Griffin will be returning for her fourth year as a varsity player. The attitude this year is aimed at winning, and it looks as if the Raiders mean business.

"This year, barring any injuries, we have the potential to be very successful," said BHS varsity baseball coach Dean Boger about the 1994 season.

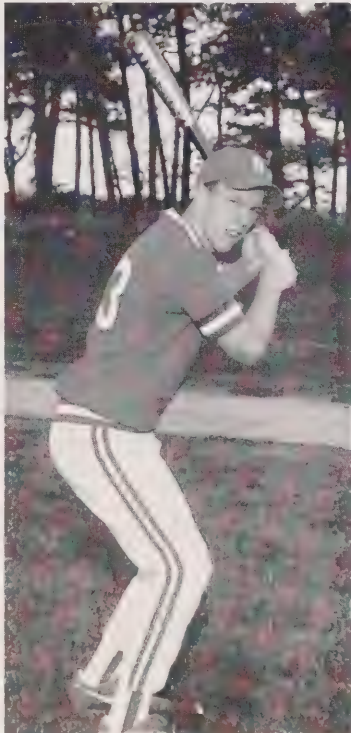

Last year the Raiders finished the season by winning the Cape Cod Classic and posting an 11-9 record overall. However, last year was also the first time in 10 years the Raiders did not qualify for the tournament.

What is the strategy for improvement this year? Senior shortstop Mike Scioletti believes an experienced team will lead the Raiders to the finals. "We've got a strong team; we've been playing together since we were 12. Pitching and hitting are strong and the defense is impenetrable ... we're looking forward to a year where we'll hopefully make the state finals."

Senior Matt Lott says that motivation among the players will help the team rise above any disappointment from last year. "This year we are more experienced, with a positive and serious outlook ... because our team is motivated by each other, we will do well."

Having played throughout high school, the upperclassmen have been able to develop and improve their game and leadership; it seems to be the consensus that the seniors will be the major benefactors to this year's success. "We're very experienced and have good pitching," said Coach Boger. "Mike Scioletti, Scott Rose (OCL All-Star), Jasen O'Neil, Ian Macallister, Tom Carvalho, Joe Machado and Peter Princi are seven people who've really played a lot in the last few years, and should lead the team this year."

Because last year's varsity was comprised mostly of juniors, the '94 Raiders will have to fill three positions with first-year starters. Nevertheless, "nothing will stop the '94 varsity baseball team from winning this year," said Scioletti. "We are all really competitive, we haven't lost a lot, and we don't like to lose."

"Success is in the eyes of the beholder," said senior Tanya Miller about the 1994 girls track team. This is a description of the season the girls expect to have. After last year's 6-3 record the girls seem to have a winning attitude. Although the team lost many valuable competitors, there is enough young talent to take their place. Seniors Jill Sauro, Heather Allen, Robyn Michonski, Caitlin Dillon and Miller are just a few strong athletes who will be sure to lead the team to victories.

The key to their success starts at the beginning, with each practice, where total effort is given. By setting goals the athletes are always making accomplishments that will eventually push them to the finish line. Lissie Antkowiak, Nicole Way and Sarah Johnson will also help defeat powerful teams like Weymouth and Falmouth.

Coach Linehan would like to thank the seniors for their loyalty and hard work and sends best wishes for the future.

Look for an exciting year from the 1994 boys track team. Coach Smith, Coach Kyle and Coach Campbell expect big things this season. With a team dominated by seniors, the Raiders should have an advantage over other teams. Big rivals such as Falmouth, Weymouth and Bridgewater-Raynham will have trouble with Barnstable this year. Led by OCL All-Stars Peter Sullivan, Rich Roser and Alex Wells, and underclassmen like Calvin Green, Jesse Pietroniro and Anthony Adams, the Raiders should be strong in sprints and relays as well as field events. With new records to set and personal bests to achieve, the Barnstable boys track team should have a winning season and a bright future.

Tennis team plans to make a racket in OCL

are coming up
“aces”

The BHS boys and girls varsity tennis teams are looking forward to this season. Both teams are starting fresh — the girls with a new coach and the boys with new transfers. In addition, the boys have several seniors — Curtis Barry, Zach Swan, Dave Parke — who are likely to dominate the league.

According to senior doubles player Kim Gates, the girls varsity team will really dominate: “I think with a new coach we’ll have a much better season. We have a lot of talent that needs to be motivated.”

The 1992 season was difficult for the girls, with only one senior player. This year, says senior singles player Caroline Kepnes, “We’ve all got lots of tournament experience and our playing level will definitely rise.”

Senior singles player Dave Parke is also excited about the '94 boys team: “We’ve only lost one player from last year. We’ve gained a very talented exchange student and a number one player from Chatham.”

The boys hope to go undefeated and capture the league championship while the girls are eager to beat longtime rival Falmouth and Bridgewater-Raynham.

Love, The Fam.

Dearest Lynn,

From the moment you were born we knew you were a special person. You have made your mark in so many ways, and we have felt so much love and pride as we watched you grow.

Along the way, you've been fortunate to have had so much help and support from your teachers, coaches, friends and family. It is something for which we are sincerely grateful.

As we look at all you've done in your life so far, we are truly proudest of the kind of person you are. You are a thoughtful, caring, generous, and loving young woman. Remember that no matter what--we are always your NUMBER ONE FANS!

With Much Love and Congratulations!
